Fireplace commissioned by a Francis Johnson Client. Carved first in wood to tweak the design then carved in Statuary marble

The first stone working robot in the UK (2009) items can be scanned and replicated (either existing items or for new designs we can model from clay) making certain jobs more commercially viable.

J. Rotherham are a 4th generation family run stone masonry firm. We specialise in combining the most advanced technology with traditional stone masonry skills in order to provide a full service from design to installation of any project involving marble, granite and stone. We are happy to work on a wide variety of projects from a simple stone memorial to a book matched marble feature wall or a bold architectural detail through to the most intricate hand carved fireplace.

We are also happy to get involved with complex conservation project where more specialised skills are required and where the robot really does offer unique scope for making work more commercially viable. We can offer a very wide choice of material (over 400 colours and £3/4 million stock on site in East Yorkshire) and expertise in order to help you achieve the desired outcome for your project.

Keeping traditional hand carving skills is of primary importance in order to finish work to the highest level.
